NYCE DA FUTURE
Nyce Da Future. The name says it all. For anyone who has an ear for an ill flow, & a taste for truly unique lyricism, Nyce satisfies the credentials. This artist is not your typical MC. His "hip-hop resume" leaves little space for doubt that he is clearly one of the best. Hailing from South Side Jamaica Queens, Nyce has been involved in the Hip-Hop game for over 5 years. Drawing inspiration from some of Hip-Hop's biggest names.

T.M.S.O.T.U. is a Sun'ical etude/study representing the Vision of The Universal Harmonics, and depicting the Music of the Spheres through different spacy, dusty, soulful and jazzy melodies put together and sampled from obscure 45rpm (for most part of the samples), then arranged on drum lines which were heavily influenced by Jazz drum breaks. Those drums, indeed, play an important part in the Alchemical mechanism of this conceptual album.

Originally from Port Arthur, Texas, UGK members Pimp and Bun were from the same town as Janis Joplin and Robert Rauschenberg. Though the town of 60,000 has a significant African American population, it was not known for its rap scene. They called themselves "Underground Kings" because their country rap style was so full of "slang and twang" they thought it was inaccessible for outsiders.

Nyce Da Future. The name says it all. For anyone who has an ear for an ill flow, & a taste for truly unique lyricism, Nyce satisfies the credentials. This artist is not your typical MC. His "hip-hop resume" leaves little space for doubt that he is clearly one of the best. Hailing from South Side Jamaica Queens, Nyce has been involved in the Hip-Hop game for over 5 years. Drawing inspiration from some of Hip-Hop's biggest names.
